

Keeping Your Pet Safe

Pet proof your house like you would when children are present. Keep household chemicals in places animals can not reach them.

Be cautious of poisonous plants. Check to see if plants around your house are animal safe.

Identification tags are not only required by law but they serve as a voice for the animal in the event they stray away from home. Consider having a micro chip implanted.

Keep your pets away from mistletoe, poinsettia, holly berries which are all harmful to your pet. Pets can easily be electrocuted if chewing on holiday lights or electrical cords.

Be cautious about what you feed to your pet. Poultry bones can splinter and cause intestinal blockage and internal injury.

Sammy Info

Sammy became a member of the Macungie Police Department in April 2008 after overwhelming support from borough residents.

Through several donations from both borough businesses and private citizens the K9 program was created.

Sammy is a Belgian Malinois (pronounced mal-a-wan) born in Holland. He began his career in Macungie when he was 15 months old. He has been certified through the Eastern Police Canine Association.

His patrol SUV is equipped with special features which keep him cool in the summer and warm in the winter. A special alarm system has been installed to alert Corporal Mullen if the climate control devices are not working properly.

Training Information

Sammy is a police working dog and has been trained in patrol and apprehension, narcotic detection and human scent tracking. Sammy can be deployed to search for lost residents and fleeing suspects.

All of Sammy's skills have been successfully utilized since his tour of duty has started. He is credited with several narcotic detections and one fugitive apprehension.

All of his commands are given in a foreign language and he will only respond to Corporal Mullen. He will watch Corporal Mullen's every move and act if he detects danger.

It is important to remind residents and visitors that Sammy is not a typical domesticated dog. He will act to protect himself or Corporal Mullen. Sammy should NEVER be approached unless permission from Corporal Mullen has been given.
